Learning to Lead

On April 17, 2004, I went to a leadership camp with the other patrol leaders and assistant patrol leaders of our Boy Scout troop. There was Mila, Quang, Khoa, Tri, Khoi, Andy, Danh and I. At this camp, we were awarded points for acts of leadership or deducted points for acting poorly by Patrick and Alina.

On Saturday, the first day of camp, Truong Hui let everybody pick his own partner. Mila and I were partners. Partners slept in the same tent and did chores and activities together. After setting up our tents, every pair was assigned a chore, either chopping wood or cutting up the food or cooking. The food tasted okay to me. I think that food cooked on an open fire tastes even better than food cooked on propane stoves. After dinner was done and everyone was full, we had a campfire. It was for skits and jokes and games, just like any other campfire. The more skits you were in, the more points you get, but points weren't everything. I did many things during the campfire. I told corny jokes, played a little guitar, and make up some weird games. Some of my games weren't that fun, but I think that they were more fun than the games of the other guys. I had a good time. After the campfire, everyone brushed their teeth and went to sleep.

The next day, it was mostly work, work and more work. Everyone learned how to make a woggle, do flag ceremonies properly, the make up of a patrol, and different lashings. It lasted forever. After that, we took down the tents, and made and ate lunch. Soon, the Truongs drove us to the park for our parents to pick us up. It was a short, but very fun leadership camp.

Silver Doesn't Always Mean Second Place...

To me, completing my Silver Award was a major accomplishment that made me very proud of myself. Although I know that I am not a perfect leader simply because I've earned this award, I still think that I have conquered something great.

I joined Girl Scouting as a really shy kid and knew nothing about socializing. I never really had a group of friends and I was even too shy to say hi or thank you. I also heard my mom talking about how I might never be able to do much if I continued to be like this.

Now, even though I am not the best leader ever and can't control everyone by saying one word, I have become the best leader that I could so far. After all of the Silver Award activities that I have done, I have learned so much. I am less shy. I am more confident. I also know more on what to say and do for people to listen, respect, and like me. I feel that I have changed a lot.

All that I hope to accomplish after this is to become more outgoing. I hope to be louder. And someday, I hope to be able to be a leader that even more people respect so that I can make a difference in the world.

Linda LK Nguyễn
Nhóm Sồi

I received my Girl Scout Silver Award on the evening of June 7th by earning all of my patches for interest projects, earning the Cadette Leadership pin, complete my Cadette Girl Scout Challenge, and earning the Dreams to Reality patch. My interest projects included Space Exploration, Paper Works, and Plant Life. For my final project, I worked with Mindy Nguyen to organize a troop meeting to examine our leadership skills; we assisted each other when we led lessons and reviews to other members of our GS troop. On the evening of June 7th, Mindy Nguyen, Diem Nguyen, Linda Nguyen and I received the prestigious Girl Scouts Silver Award. I felt great pride and excitement when I received these honorable awards. I received 5 certificates, a plaque, and a medal on this exciting evening. My parents presented me with the medal and one of the certificates. I was so happy and proud. I gave them each a hug with joy and love.

I want to thank Mindy Nguyen for putting so much effort into working with me. I would also like to thank my parents, Alina, Truong Hui, and Chi Giang for supporting me.

Xuan Loc Vain
Nhóm Phoông Hoang

Earning the Girl Scout Silver Award was very long and hard. I had to do a Cadette Girl Scout Challenge, earn three Interest Projects, earn the Leadership Award, earn the Dreams to Reality patch, and do a final project. For my Cadette Girl Scout Challenge, I had to learn to do something new that I had never done before. I went to Mountain High with the rest of our Thieu Nu and learned how to ski or snowboard. It was very different, yet fun. I went to workshops to earn my Interest Projects. I learned a great deal of things I never knew before. I became the leader of my patrol, Thien Nga, in August of 2003, which is how I earned the Leadership Award. For my Final Project, Xuan Loc and I planned and took charge of a troop meeting on March 28th, 2004.

On the day of the Silver Award ceremony, I and twelve other girls from our community received certificates and awards from the Mayor of Westminster and the Mayor of Garden Grove. We received our Silver Award Pins from our parents after Alina read our biographies. Afterwards, we said thank you to everyone who had helped us on our journey. That was very exciting for me because I knew that this award was the highest honor I could receive as a Cadette Girl Scout. I had worked very hard for this award but I definitely would not have been able to achieve it without the help of my leaders, my fellow Girl Scouts, my family, and my friends. I am very grateful for their help.

Even Leaders Get Scared...

On the last weekend of May, I was fortunate enough to be able to go to Camp William J. Reid. This was a camp to prepare anyone who wanted to become a leader. At this camp, leaders from all of the Vietnamese units were mixed together.

Truong Tu and I arrived at the campsite at around 6 o'clock at night. My first thought about this camp was that I probably wouldn't like it there because I didn't know anyone at the camp except for Truong Tu and Truong Hui. Although I didn't like it there so far, it was too late to turn back then. So after signing in, I was assigned to my patrol, Dong Da. I met seven other members of my group. They were all from different units. Some were from Truong Son and some were from Lam Son and even Hung Vuong. On the second day of the camp, it became much better. I started to build a closer relationship with my patrol. They were all very nice. The longer that I was at the camp, the more I liked it. I found it pretty fascinating to learn about all the different levels in Scouting. I was most interested in the Cub Scout portion. We had so much fun, for we played many games. Although our patrol didn't win any of the games in this portion, we had plenty of fun and excitement. Also within this camp, everyone had the chance to become a patrol leader at least once. There were eight members in Dong Da, but three members had to leave early; therefore, the people that stayed behind had the opportunity to be patrol leader twice instead of just once. It was scary to be a patrol leader at first, but as time went on, it was interesting.

At the beginning of the camp, everyone was notified that prizes would be given out - this created competition between all of the patrols. Although my patrol didn't win, we had tried our best. I was very proud of my patrol. I have kept the poem that my patrol wrote to all of the leaders of the course as a gift before we said good-bye. It brings back memories of how we came up with that poem. When the time came to say good-bye to everyone, I was hesitant to leave. I had become friends with all of the members of Dong Da. I knew that I was going to miss them all very much. It was a pity that I didn't bring a camera to take a picture of the whole group. I know I will keep in contact with all of my patrol members.
